Applying to job openings on-line is now the recruiting norm. Today's savvy job hunters seek companies that allow them to apply on-line and are responsive and timely to their job applications. NuView's Candidate Self-Service (CSS) allows job applicants to apply for job openings and build/submit their resume on-line.

FAST AND EASY • Applicants can also apply for additional openings and update their resume with more current information. Recruiters can apply screening questions to further qualify candidates and quickly identify best matches. Automated responses/emails let the candidate know their application will be reviewed.

THE SELF-SERVICE PROCESS • Research shows that today's job candidates form an opinion about your company through your website and how you treat job seekers. How do you currently respond to candidates? Do they get an email that their resume was received? Or do you leave them with the feeling that their resume has fallen into a black hole? All too often, companies simply collect resumes and job applicants never hear from them again. Not so with NuViewHR Recruiting Management and Candidate Self-Service.
